A 2023 Gift Directory

From Anavila's florist to Loewe's India leather lead, we've tracked down the hottest gifts to buy and bestow this season.

Tchotchkes:

Objects of Our Affection

★ Velvet Ribbon: Lemon Sorbet Wrapping Paper

Petals Deas, who studied floristry at Jane Packer, London and worked as a stylist at Vogue India, has built a business out of her impeccable taste and hosting skills. Via her Velvet-een empire, you can send out the poshest petals - hand-tied and box bouquets - as well as shop ribbons, gift bags, boxes and wrapping paper printed with juicy Sicilian lemons and jumpy leopards. Now say meow and start wrapping our gifts already.

★ Sensing: Cozy-Core Tees For The Holidays

Years of research went into Sensing's cozy-core "skin-smart" clothing essentials that are free of toxic dyes and chemicals (but not style); are built to be breathable, with innovative pH balanced fabric made from beechwood that's comfortable on your skin; and best of all, they decompose into the soil once they are no longer wearable. Sensing's Balance Capsule line of elevated essentials - we love the Pleats Please pants and solid coloured tees - for men and women fit super well, have a cute style element and feel like the hug you need this holiday season. Our favourite Sensing experience is to skip the season's card parties, slip into a Sensing-something and host a house tequila party for Team No-Teen-Patti-Please.

Shop at www.sensingyourskin.com, 7506508474, Instagram, starts at Rs 1,799, currently 20% off on select items.

★ Rock Paper Scissors: Shy Guy Lamp

This "material exploration lab" based out of Bombay, creates a cool constellation of lamps from upcycled waste wood generated from construction sites and wood workshops. These wonder wood workers expose a cross section of plywood which is commonly hidden, resulting in lamps with sexy, sinuous patterns; see Hour Glass, Swivelling, Stretch
Table and Belly lights. Our favourite is the lamp assigned with "Shy Guy" body language, bearing a cute downcast 'face' attached to a brass neck that can be lifted once the lamp gains confidence in your safe space.
